PSNDL (PlayStation Network Download) is the friendliest place to download PSN content for free for your PlayStation.

This is the year the first version of PSNDL was born. It all started when PSNStuff announced it was stopping its development. Back then, I was using this tool a lot and I was always suffering by the fact that it was not cross platform compatible. It is for that specific reason I had chosen to rewrite the tool under the brand of PSNDLv0.1 in Java.

A year later, I could no longer handle all the requests to add new packages. It felt like it needed a way to let the community contribute on its own. This is why PSNDLv2, the first web version came out. However, it was lacking so many features that by the end of the year I chose to rewrite it in Symphony and rename it to PSNDLv3.

Six years later, the website is getting old again. Its technology stack is deprecated and getting harder to maintain. It's also lacking many features that we expect to have now: what about social features such as adding comments, thumbs up or down, . This is where PSNDLv4 is coming strong. Rewritten in Ruby on Rails, it will be much easier and less time consuming to add new functionalities over the time. Also, I'm hopping to reach more developer from the community: after all, we have a big 0 contributor to beat.

The package database also increased from 6098 packages to over 23 000 packages.

Offline Cache (ApplicationCache.db) Install Payload to PS4.

Following my previous update, I have created a payload to install the ApplicationCache.db for hosting offline PS4 exploits.

The payload contains a basic set of exploits for anyone that just wants a simple set of exploits.. just run the payload then go to <http://cache/index.html> or the user guide. If you delete the browser data just run the payload again and it will reinstall the basic exploits.

You don't need to disable the network connection so the ftp payload will still work.

The DB_SG_Backup payload also backs up the cache db, if you already have a offline cache setup you can back that up.

If you delete the browser data you can put the ApplicationCache.db file from the backup on the root of a usb drive and reinstall it using this payload.

For anyone that is looking to make their own db file I have included the SQL File to create a db using DB Browser.

Just modify the sql to suit your needs and create a new database in DB Browser called ApplicationCache.db and execute the sql and save.. you can put the ApplicationCache.db on the root of a usb drive and run the install payload to install it.

If you want to modify the payload to contain your version of the db file just encode your db file with base64 and put the data into the ApplicationCache.h file of the source and compile.

Collaboration.

Dear programmers, you are welcome, improve and correct everything you find wrong, I just ask you not to fork but grow this tool, if you have a digital signature fill it in and share it with others, but do not insert adaware or exploits. Those who do not know how to program can make videos or write tutorials. I do not publish any video for copyright reasons, I just write the software. Have fun, everyone.

Parsing Image0 folder and return valid .gp file, very easy but I'm not sure about all tags.

You must have the following files:

di.exe libatrac9.dll sc.exe trp_compare_default.css gengp4.exe orbis-pub-cmd.exe Unself.exe gengp4.exe orbis-pub-gen.exe sfo.py elf.py.

Just Compile it with Autoit and Run.

Follow the order of the buttons, then look inside the patch folder your downgrade PKG file.

Activating a C00/Demo package is very easy and doesn't require a rap file. It can be done using ReActPSN or PSNPatch .

ReActPSN : Run the homebrew while pressing and holding circle on your controller.

PSNPatch : Run PSNPatch and press R1. It should displays a list of the games that have been unlocked.

Activating a package using a rap file requires few steps. It can be done with ReActPSN or PSNPatch . However, I will only describe how to do it with ReActPSN .

Format a USB key in FAT32. Create the folder 'exdata' at the root of the USB key. Move the corresponding RAP file for the games you want to activate in the exdata folder.
