My Favorite Internet Booster Software:

Internet Accelerator is the best and lightweight Internet Speed Booster software that I tested. This tool automatically optimizes your computer's network settings to accelerate Internet speed on your PC. Simply select the type of internet connection you are using, and hit Accelerate to Boost Internet on your PC.

Here are the Best Free Internet Booster Software:

Internet Accelerator.

Internet Accelerator is a free software to boost internet speed on your computer. This internet booster software is pretty simple to use. You just have to select your connection type, and click on the Accelerate option. You can choose from the following connection types:

Internet Dial up connection via Modem. Internet Dial up connection via ISDN ADSL/Cable/LAN/Satellite/Other direct internet connections ADSL/Cable/LAN/Satellite running PPPoE Home or Small office LAN Corporate LAN.

Once you select your Internet connection type, and run the program to boost your internet speed, this software runs various operations. These operations include:

Scanning Compute TCP/IP transport setting Optimize internet connection speed with and from ISP Optimize handling of Internet delays Avoid slow sessions caused by nonstandard internet hosts.

Apart from normal functions, it also lets you change Advanced Internet Accelerator Settings. Select your connection type, and you can also view network statistics. This Internet speed accelerator displays the Incoming and Outgoing data for a session.

MZ XP Tweak.

MZ XP Tweak is an Internet Booster Freeware for Windows. This software also optimizes various settings of your computer to deliver maximum performance. The Internet Booster tool optimizes the following major settings to boost internet speed on your computer:

Select the type of connection, and click on Apply Internet Booster Tweaks to boost your internet. This software also optimizes Internet Explorer, and Mozilla Firefox to boost Internet Speed.

Apart from Boosting Internet, this software also optimizes your PC for:

Performance Visuals Windows Media Player Other important PC optimizations.

Hola is a peer to peer VPN which accelerates your Internet. This is possible by a Virtual Private Network between Hola users. How does Hola actually work? Internet delay is caused by the following reasons:

Server Response Time Internet Congestion Round Trip Times Badly Written Communication Stacks.

Hola caches and saves content on peers as they view it, and makes it available to other peers when they need it. It also performs data compression to further speed up the internet. If the Hola community in your area is bigger, the internet will be faster. This software is actually known for providing unrestricted free web browsing, without any censorship. If a website is blocked in your region, it makes that accessible on your computer. Hola Internet Speed Accelerator is a multi platform tool, and can also be used as add-on, or extension on various Internet browsers, like Google Chrome, Mozilla Firefox, and Opera. This tool is free to use, but it uses your computer as a peer. If you do not want your system to be a peer, and only want to access data, you will have to go premium.

Opera Browser.

Opera Browser provides a very interesting feature to accelerate Internet browsing speed. With the Opera Turbo feature, it can beat the slow internet speed by compressing data and images on proxy servers, before it reaches your Computer. This feature reduces the bandwidth required to load a webpage, and hence increases internet speed. To Enable Opera Turbo, click on the Opera Turbo option in the menu. Toggle On/Off from the same button on the Menu. Access advanced features like, automatically turning on the Opera Turbo, if a slow connection is detected.

If you have a slow internet connection, this feature can turn out to be very useful. Other browsers need add-on, or extension to perform this operation, but Opera has this tool embedded with it.

Web Boost.

Web Boost is a free Google Chrome extension which works as Internet Speed Booster. This internet booster tool works on a quite different technology than other internet boosters. This open source tool is loaded with hand picked Website Building Blocks . These blocks are used on a majority of famous websites and general websites. This tool stores these blocks on your computer. So, when you browse internet, these blocks will not get downloaded, hence the webpages will load faster.

The developers tag this tool to be eco-friendly. Why? Because, it lets your browser to send less requests to the server, which in turn makes the servers to spend less energy. Add this extension for fast web browsing on Google Chrome.

Data Saver (Beta)

Data Saver (Beta) is another free Internet Booster. This one is offered by Google. It is a Google Chrome extension which is still in Beta mode, but does its job efficiently. This tool uses Google servers to compress pages before downloading them to your computer. This Internet booster software is extremely light. You can view the interface by clicking the Icon of this extension, available right besides the address bar of Google Chrome. Click on the Icon to view the statistics. This Internet booster displays the Original size of the data downloaded, and the actual data downloaded after compression. You can also view a graphical timeline, which shows the data comparison. Toggle On/Off data saver from the extension interface.
