Powerpoint 2016 in Windows 10 crashes freequently.

I am on a team that produces AV for a church in Minneapolis. We run 5 services a weekend from two locations. We stream our 10:30 service on Sundays. We have widescreen projection in both locations, using PowerPoint as our source. Recently we upgraded. In the upgrade we have three new PCs running Windows 10 and PowerPoint 2016. On all three, PowerPoint crashes intermittently and frequently. This is really intolerable, especially in the middle of a service.

We have a site license for Office. All PowerPoint software has been activated, but the crashes continue.

I have no idea what to do next. Any help will be treasured.

This can be due to the configuration of the PowerPoint application. To better understand your concern, we'd like to know the following:

The error messages that you're getting when you experience your concern. The last activities performed on your devices prior to your concern. The version of Office that you're using on your devices. To check this, you can perform the steps posted on this link. The version and build of Windows 10 that you're using on your device. To check this, you can perform the steps posted on this link.

In the meantime, we'd recommend performing a repair to the PowerPoint application to fix broken system files related to the application. To do this, you can perform the steps posted on this link.

We look forward to your response.

Error message: I just get a message that Powerpoint has stopped working with no details.

Activities performed on the devices: Running show to projectors. No other software running on computers.

Version of Office: The only office software we are running on these computers is Powerpoint. It indicates Office 16, but when I click "About" I get a window with all the languages the software supports. I click on "OK" and the window closes, but no additional product information is displayed.

Windows 10 version: 1703.

OS Build: 15963.483.

I did run the fix broken system files related to Powerpoint on all three computers. The only way I will be able to test completely, however, is on Saturday and Sunday when we are running our services. It is at these times the software is running for up to six hours straight.

I will keep my fingers crossed that things will be okay. I will keep you updated.

Firstly I would like to thank Jelu's consideration of our problems.

Secondly, I need to apologize. As I previously stated we have three new computers running Windows 10 that I reported were having problems with Powerpoint. On one PC, located in our second worship space, I discovered that the operator had embedded two videos in the presentation that totaled approximately 5 GB. He has been asked not to do that. Since then we haven't had any additional issues with PPT on that machine.

On our second computer in our main worship space I activated PPT and did a repair. Since then it has not failed.

Our primary production computer in our main worship space we have continuous intermittent PPT failures. We installed ProPresenter, thinking that we would use it rather than PPT. The computer crashed using ProPresenter as well. We suspect something else is happening here; likely not PPT related.

Codec Unavailable -PowerPoint 2010.

Both my wife and I have Office 2010 on our PC laptops. She has to review other classmates powerpoints with audio embedded. When she downloads the powerpoint and attempts to play the audio it says codec unavailable. I download the same file on my system and it works fine. I found 1 suggestion that she needed a quicktime update. I installed the latest quicktime player and still get the same error. These are all audio embedded through PowerPoint. When I add audio to that powerpoint myself it plays back fine on her laptop.

Other suggestions have been to resave and extract yada, yada, yada. This is not feasible as she has several PPT's she has to review and she is not savy enough to do this for each and every file.

I don't know what else to do and have not found any other fixes for this.
