Airy claims that it provides a perfect combination of functionality, versatility, and user experience. Airy can convert videos from YouTube into various other formats including mp3. It is perfect for downloading music for offline listening on any device.

It also supports downloading YouTube playlists directly. This makes it easier for you to save the entire playlist without any hassle. Not only playlists, but Airy's batch download also allows you to download all the videos from an entire channel at the same time. Perhaps the most convenient feature of Airy is that it integrates quite well with most of the popular browsers such as Google Chrome, Microsoft Edge, Firefox, and Opera. Whenever you are watching a video on YouTube, Airy will add a download button next to it for a seamless downloading experience.

7. ClipGrab.

ClipGrab is marketed as a "Friendly" YouTube downloader and does its job exactly as intended. The software supports video downloading from YouTube and many other websites like Facebook, Instagram, Dailymotion, Vimeo, and more. Not only just videos, but it can convert those videos into any format. The software also supports downloading into lossless FLV and MPEG4 formats.

ClipGrab has a very user-friendly interface. It is an open-source project and is absolutely free. ClipGrab, however, encourages users to donate in order to raise money for the future development of the software. The software can automatically detect URLs from sites like YouTube from your clipboard and prompt you whether you want to download the video or not. ClipBoard definitely stands out from the crowd with the best and cleanest user interface with awesome functionality. The application is available for Windows, Mac, and Linux.

8. Gihosoft TubeGet.

Gihosoft is one of the most renowned companies that provide both free and paid software. One of their creations is TubeGet. The software allows you to download from YouTube and more than a hundred other websites. The software also has a converter that allows you to convert your YouTube video into any format your device supports. It can also easily convert your video files into audio ones.

After setting up the download format, download quality & output directory, you can just download any video in just one click. TubeGet also supports subtitles. You can either choose to merge the subtitles or closed captions file into the video or just download it separately as an SRT file as well. Gihosoft TubeGet is available for both Mac and Windows.

9. WinX YouTube Downloader.

WinX YouTube Downloader is super easy to use. It is clean, powerful, and supports downloading videos from multiple websites. All you have to do is to copy the URL of your video, select the format of the output, and set the quality you want. Once you have added all the videos you want to download, select the download option. The software will process all your videos at once and will download them simultaneously.

The software supports the downloading of videos in up to 4K resolution. Unfortunately, it cannot download audio separately from videos like other software on the list. If you are looking for a basic YouTube download, you can check this one out.

10. aTube Catcher.

aTube Catcher is another excellent software for downloading videos from the internet. Not only does it support YouTube but it also supports hundreds of other websites to download from. Downloaded videos can be converted into multiple formats of your choice. You can convert videos to watch into different types of devices that support them. The software also lets you max out your bandwidth if you are looking to download a lot of videos all at once.

The software, however, bundles adware as well. So make sure you cancel the installation of any app that comes around "aTube Catcher" while the installation process occurs. Another feature of this software is that it also doubles up as a screen recorder. This is something unique and none of the other downloaders on this list has this feature. It also allows you to merge multiple videos, burn CDs and DVDs, and a lot of other things as well.

11. Free YouTube Downloader.

Free YouTube Download by DVDVideoSoft offers a really hassle-free and clean downloading experience. It might not be feature-rich like other contenders on this list. But it definitely does what it advertises quite well, that is downloading videos from YouTube and other video hosting websites. It supports downloading videos from your YouTube playlists, channels, or personal playlists like watched videos, liked videos, and more.

The multistream downloading feature takes care of simultaneous downloads all at once. It also supports downloading up to 8K and can also convert your videos into audio files. You can also edit metadata of your audio files, add subtitles, transfer files to iTunes, and more.

12. Any Video Converter.

Last but not least on our list is Any Video Converter. Although advertised as a video converter software, the package includes a converter, YouTube downloader, video editor, and a CD burner. The user interface might not please the masses, but the functionality should definitely do that. The software can download videos from YouTube, Facebook, VEVO, Vimeo, SoundCloud, Dailymotion, Vimeo, Metacafe, Howcast, NicoNico, and hundreds of other websites as well.

The basic editor included with the software lets you crop or trim a video, add effects, subtitles or text and export it into various formats. Make sure you uncheck the included bundled software from Bytedance and Yahoo and you are good to go. The software is available for both Mac and PC.

Final Words.

These were our Top picks for the best free YouTube Downloader. Most of them do a satisfying job of downloading content from YouTube and a bunch of other websites. A lot of them have additional functionality like music downloads, converting into various formats. For example, the iTubeGo, 4K Video Downloader, and Airy are all perhaps the best overall software for downloading both video and audio in various formats. Any Video Converter surprised us for the package it gave in such a lightweight software experience as well.
