What is "kakaotalk"

KakaoTalk (Korean: 카카오톡), or sometimes KaTalk, is a free mobile instant messaging application for smartphones with free text and free call features. It was launched on March 18, 2010 and is currently available on iOS, Android, Bada OS, BlackBerry, Windows Phone, Nokia Asha and Personal Computer. KakaoTalk currently has 170 million users and is available in 15 languages. The app is also used by 93% of smartphone owners in South Korea.

In addition to free calls and messages, KakaoTalk users can share diverse content and information including photos, videos, voice messages, location, URL links as well as contact information. Both one-on-one and group chats are available over Wifi, 3G or LTE and there are no limits to the number of friends who can join in on a group chat.

KakaoTalk automatically synchronizes the user's contact list on their smartphones with the contact list on KakaoTalk to find friends who are on the service. Users can also search friends by KakaoTalk ID without having to know each other's phone number. The KakaoTalk service also allows its users to export their messages and save them for future reference.

KakaoTalk began as a messenger service, but has transformed itself into a platform for the distribution of various third party content and apps, including hundreds of games, which users can download and play their friends through the messaging platform.

Through the "Plus Friend" feature on KakaoTalk, users can follow brands, media and celebrities to receive exclusive messages, coupons and other real-time information through KakaoTalk chatrooms. Users can also purchase real-life goods through the messenger's "Gifting" platform, such as Starbucks coffee or jewelry.

KakaoTalk: Free Calls & Text for PC.

Download KakaoTalk for PC free at BrowserCam. Kakao Corporation launched KakaoTalk app for the Android as well as iOS, however, you can even install KakaoTalk on PC or laptop. Now let's learn the steps that will help you download KakaoTalk for PC on Windows or MAC laptop without much effort.

KakaoTalk is a free and fast messaging app which is available for Android, iOS, Windows OS and Mac OS. It features free voice and video calls and of course, instant messaging. Like WhatsApp or Line, KakaoTalk uses your phone number to create an account for you. It works on Wifi and on your mobile networks. Although it has its fair share of active users, you cannot really compare its user base to WhatsApp.

KakaoTalk's features are quite similar to what Viber offers. Everything is free for KakaoTalk users. Unlike Skype, you can't call people who are not using KakaoTalk. However, it is considerably popular among users.

KakaoTalk integrates automatically with your phonebook, and instantly shows you who are available for setting up a conversation. You can send photos, videos and other kinds of files to your friends or to a group. Links, contacts, your location and voice messages can also be sent. Stickers and emoticons, although personally, I don't find these very useful, are also available.

Voice and Video calls between users worked fine. We didn't experience any major glitches. The user interface is pleasant and well designed. Voice filters allow you to change your voice to make it sound funny while in a voice call. However, it wasn't something which other competitors are not yet providing.

You can also plan your lunches with friends in a group, which is a good feature to have. The social platform that KakaoTalk provides is quite a nice addition to the app. The app also gives you small mobile games, which you can enjoy while waiting for someone to answer. KakaoTalk al.

Overall, KakaoTalk looks promising. But, we didn't find anything unique. It's well behind the competition, and only time will tell if the developers can somehow manage to considerably increase their user base. With so many messaging apps out there, most of them providing almost the same set of features, it is very difficult to say if KakaoTalk is going to be on the top of the list anytime soon.

KakaoTalk.

KakaoTalk is a comprehensive chat and messaging application which not only supports conversations on mobile phones, but this version is specifically for the Windows PC.

The program supports many different functions that you would find on other programs like Viber or MSN Messenger, but can also send text messages to cell phones. You may also compare KakaoTalk to WhatsApp if you install it on an iPhone or Android.

On the PC version, you can join conversations with multiple people, send "stickers" and join in on the social networking features Kakao has to offer. For those of us in North America, there wouldn't be that much in terms of social activities.

KakaoTalk for PC.

Kakao Talk is free to use a messaging application available on not just iPhone and iOS but also on Windows and MacOS. It was developed and is operated by Kakao Corp., which is a Korean Internet company that offers a variety of different services. It offers free texting and calling services. It has over 200 million users who have registered with the app. It has 50 million active users, the majority of which are in Korea.

Main Features of Kakao Talk.

User Interface (UI) – The User Interface (UI) of the app is very well designed, is sleek, and very to use. Fast – The app is very fast, sending messages, videos, and images near instantaneously. Video Calls- It allows you to have video calls with 5 people. Themes – The app allows you to customize your themes. Games – You can distribute, download, and play games via the Kakao Talk app. Languages – Kakao talk is available in 15 different languages. Voice filters – It has voice filters that are fun to mess around with. Group chats – The app supports group chats with unlimited members, which is better than most of its competition, which usually only support 50 members. Multi-platform – It is available on both PC and on mobile which is incredibly convenient as you can use it wherever you like. Syncing with Other Kakao apps – This app syncs incredibly well with other Kakao apps like for e.g. Kakao Music as you can share music through Kakao Talk. It also works well with Kakao friends, Kakao pay, and Kakao TV. So if you have other Kakao apps, this app would mix in extremely well, making it even more convenient for the user.

Major Drawbacks.

Privacy and Security issues – The app has no privacy protocol and has no encryption, unlike WhatsApp making it less safe to use. Emoticons – The emoticons are extremely limited. Korea – Centric – The app is largely based around and caters to a Korean audience, and because of that, it does not have a large user base outside of Korea. No data backup - It does not store the chats of the user, which can be problematic if you are switching over to a new device.

How to use the App? Once the app has been installed, click on it to open. Then register with your phone number to start chatting. You can search for your friends via their phone numbers or through the special Kakao ID.

Where to get the App from? You can get it by following the steps below.
